About us

Rabbitats' goal is to save the lives of abandoned and feral rabbits. We help build affordable colony housing for sterilized rabbits and educate new rabbit guardians on low maintenance, affordable and sustainable care. Controlled rabbit populations can replace feral colonies.

Why we do what we do

Cities contend with abandoned pets and their feral offspring while rural areas deal with unscrupulous breeders who routinely release their unwanted stock. The non-native domestic rabbits soon become a problem for municipalities, businesses and neighbourhoods forced to deal with environmentally destructive natural behaviour like chewing and burrowing. It's a tragedy for the loose bunnies as they will most likely be killed by predators, parasites, sport hunters or trappers hired for 'pest control'.

Your role

Rabbitats is a volunteer-run charity that survives off the donations of wonderful people like you. Every cent we receive goes towards rescuing feral and abandoned rabbits: paying for veterinary care, finding good homes, and building sanctuaries.

Adopt, volunteer and donate to help us continue to do what we do.

My Story

I was raised by a loving family since I was born. I was bought from a family friend whose rabbits had a small litter. Since the family couldn't raise 4 more rabbits, they decided to give us away to other loving families. However, 1 year later, my family moved into a place that didn't allow any pets so they had to give me away. My owners passed me on to Rabbitats on March 21 of 2020. I hope I'll find my furever home soon!

Brief Medical History

Caramel was already neutered by the time she arrived at Rabbitats. She has had some complications with her teeth, but it has since been treated. Her foot has been broken before and it healed awkwardly, giving her a slight limp to her hop but that doesn't stop her from energetically running around.

What I'm like

- Likes to eat lettuce
- Likes to run around in a large space
- Good with kids
